Wells Bream,

Caught part of your program with the Educators. You asked the question of them about the low voter turn out. It surprised me that no one really nailed the reason for this.

I will try to lay it out for you. To come out with the answer, it has to be viewed from A-Z. I want to say from the outset that it makes me feel good that so many of the people know and realize the facts and they express their disapproval of the system as it now exists by not voting.

FOR starters Dan Greenspan is on record for saying "I don't care who you elect, whether he be Democrat or Republican he is going to do what I tell him."

The International Bankers, C F R, the Insiders, Brookings Inst. grade, have a near strangle hold on this debt nation. In fact they have nearly 100% control Nationally, with the balance at State and local levels.
Many of the State and local control units work directly or indirectly
with one or more of the top units.
They have their nose in the peoples
business, almost all facets.

We use to have a Constitutional Republic, now it is Democratic Socialism. The loss of control of our monetary system is another negative segment.

Example - Don Bowles died (killed)
before he could reveal how rotten the Arizona State setup was, and is.
If a person is not connected with the family or group that is in

~~for~~ control, he or she doesn't have a chance.

The last outsider was the Peanut farmer, Congress cut him off at the belly, he had to squat
to pee.

The voters knowing the facts afore mentioned, do not want to approve of the present system.

TO VOTE is approval

NO VOTE is disapproval.
I am now 65, I intend to never vote again.

Sorry no phone Brian, but please write.

Respectfully Yours,

Mission, TX. 78572

P.S. We have a dish.
