Re: The Waco Tragedy

Dear Miss Reno,

Thank you very much for the courtesy of your reply to my husband and me dated 25 May 1993.

Please keep in mind the important questions concerning this terrible occurrence here in the United States are:

1. What were the BATF and FBI doing there anyway?
2. Why is the reported search warrant classified secret?
3. Where was the County Sheriff?
4. What is the justification for spending a million dollars a day?
5. If the Branch Davidian Church was a real threat to the security of the local citizens, where is the proof?

Some citizens on hand during the Waco surveillance are reporting that three helicopters poured bullets into the church compound as part of the attack. No mention of this in the press. An informer said the church returned fire and one of the helicopters was hit and had to land. A man thinking to help rushed to the helicopter and was "man-handled" with a foot on his back, his face pushed into the mud by an ATF agent who told him he'd be killed if he uttered a word to anybody about the part the helicopters played in the attack. This man was too scared to testify on Radio Free America. We hear about investigations, but thereafter all is quieted. Why?

As United States citizens, we don't want the Justice Dept. to investigate itself. We want a complete and thorough hearing begun by our representatives--and we want the TRUTH.

ADL Firmly Linked to Waco Tragedy

The Anti-Defamation League (ADL) of B'nai B'rith can take credit for the holocaust in Waco, Texas that resulted in the slaughter of nearly one hundred men, women and children.

Herb Brin, a leading backer of the ADL and publisher of Heritage, a newspaper which serves the Jewish community in Los Angeles, has let the cat out of the bag.

In a signed headline story which appeared in the April 16 edition of his newspaper, Brin inadvertently exposed the role that the ADL played in helping engineer the BATF slaughter at the Branch Davidian compound in Waco. In an article hailing the ADL's now-infamous, once-secret international spy network, Brin stated:

"U.S. and Texas authorities have precise documentation (from ADL, of course) on the Branch Davidian cult in Waco and how it operated in the past."

Brin's amazing revelation (ostensibly designed to praise the ADL's activities) brings to light the truth about the propaganda and disinformation about the beleaguered religious sect.

In short, it was the ADL that essentially tricked the federal authorities into conducting the operation that resulted in the tragedy.

What's more, The SPOTLIGHT has learned the so-called Cult Awareness Network (CAN) which also produced the assault on the Branch Davidians is closely connected to the ADL.

(Some sources, in fact, believe that CAN is, in fact, an ADL-funded front operation. There is no question, however, that CAN does operate as such.)

In any case, the American public owes a great debt to Herb Brin, publisher of Heritage newspaper and an admitted sometime ADL informant himself. Thanks to Brin the truth about the ADL's intervention in the Branch Davidian affair is now part of the public record.

A final note: in the same article where he bragged of the ADL's campaign against the religious sect, Brin noted that, as a consequence of the ADL's involvement in the San Francisco scandal, Liberty Lobby was in what he called its "finest hour."

The ADL is certainly not in its finest hour, this especially since more than a few people have suggested that the very reason why David Koresh and the Branch Davidian sect members were subjected to the fiery holocaust that brought the standoff in Waco to an end is because the ADL did not want the Branch Davidians to come out alive.

Had Koresh and his followers gone to trial (which is very much apparently what they desired in order that they could tell their side of the story), the course of legal discovery would have revealed the way that the ADL had been prodding action by the FBI and the BATF.

This would have exposed the ADL's criminal methods and its covert spy operations even further at a time when the outfit is already under fire. Thus it was necessary that the Branch Davidians be exterminated. A lucky few did survive which means that, ultimately, the truth may come out.
