C-SPAN SIMULCASTS BBC ELECTION NIGHT RESULTS

--National Election in UK Seen as Bellwether for US--

Washington D.C., April 8, 1992 -- Tomorrow night, Thursday, April 9, from 7:00 PM (ET) - 10:30 PM (ET) C-SPAN will provide a LIVE simulcast of the BBC's election night telecast from London. The special simulcast is part of C-SPAN's week-long look at the candidates, the process and the issues surrounding this British election which is being called the tightest in a generation.

The BBC coverage, anchored in London with feeds from around the country, will include election tabulation, exit poll results, and the traditional pomp and circumstance of the Returning Officials announcing results from various "Constituencies" -- areas similar to Congressional districts in America. The coverage will be anchored by senior BBC reporter David Dimbleby, and will include some lighter moments courtesy of political humorist, Rory Bremner.

Strong parallels are being drawn between the judgment faced by Prime Minister John Major tomorrow night and that to be faced by President George Bush in November. Similar issues such as economic recession, health care reform and national defense in the non-Cold War era are guiding forces in both elections.

C-SPAN is now available in 56 million homes nationwide and around the world via satellite. C-SPAN is privately funded to serve the public by America's cable television companies.

--National Election in UK Seen as Bellwether for US--

Washington D.C., April 8, 1992 -- Tomorrow night, Thursday, April 9, from 7:00 PM (ET) - 10:30 PM (ET) C-SPAN will provide a LIVE simulcast of the BBC's election night telecast from London. The special simulcast is part of C-SPAN's week-long look at the candidates, the process and the issues surrounding this British election which is being called the tightest in a generation.

The BBC coverage, anchored in London with feeds from around the country, will include election tabulation, exit poll results, and the traditional pomp and circumstance of the Returning Officials announcing results from various "Constituencies" -- areas similar to Congressional districts in America. The coverage will be anchored by senior BBC reporter David Dimbleby, and will include some lighter moments courtesy of political humorist, Rory Bremner.

Strong parallels are being drawn between the judgment faced by Prime Minister John Major tomorrow night and that to be faced by President George Bush in November. Similar issues such as economic recession, health care reform and national defense in the non-Cold War era are guiding forces in both elections.

C-SPAN is now available in 56 million homes nationwide and around the world via satellite. C-SPAN is privately funded to serve the public by America's cable television companies.
