Dear Mr. Lamb,

Concerning the Presidential Race, as usual the pundits are ignoring the women of America, more than 50% of the electorate.

If you think they don't care about the infidelity and promiscuity of the candidate from Arkansas, think again.
- They do. - (A cheater, and a long-term cheater.)

Concerning Mario Cuomo, the governor is a brilliant man, a fascinating man, a good family man, and, very importantly, a masculine man,

- and a capable and tough fighter (when he wants to be).
- In addition, he is a man of deep and literate ideas, and a man of elegance (his attire is always impeccable).

Although not what might be termed a handsome man, there's something about him that reminds me of Cary Grant.

- There's something about a macho, fine-tooled Italian male that shouldn't be overlooked. - Or under-rated.

This is a ^{savvy} ~~sassy~~ man, a caring man, a very bright man, and a capable hard-bitten. - As well as a highly eloquent man. - He should be a candidate.

(Remember The Caesars.)

(It was my ancestor, Gen. "John Stark, the first Governor of New Hampshire, who said: "Live free, or die." - Wrench for him!) C - so active in the Revolutionary War.)

And he has a beautiful, lady-like, intelligent wife.

I have a lot of respect and admiration for George Bush, but I think he deserves a rest - and so does Mrs. Bush.

Let us have a Democratic President the next term, or terms.

And don't forget the women of America when contemplating this race. -

They won't forget who stands up for, and works for, women and children and decent values. - And those who don't and won't.

W

(If we had more men today like John Stark, we wouldn't be as weak as the nation is now.)

I also have considerable regard for Senator Harkin. - But I am in stronger P.S. -

The values that protect women and children, decent homes, and decent, strong communities, are the values that will prevail - and the only values that will.

Everything else, and everyone else, will fall, fatally and completely + ^{and sooner} than expected.

Thank you for the good work C-Span often does, and for your own usually fine work on C-Span.

I watch it only now and then, but it's almost all of any worth TV provides.

Good luck in your career.
