Suggestion:

When the House + Senate are again in session, couldn't you have weekend programs reviewing what actually happened or not happened during that week. With so much going on in committees that never gets to the floor, we are not quite sure how much has been accomplished. Has the bill been passed by both houses or has it been killed in the Senate?

Working people only see early morning, evening or weekends. "Weekly Review".

Suggestion:

Will you publish a Governor's Handbook after the fall elections? - A new Congressional Handbook?

Would you consider a Handbook of Govt. Agencies?

Would you consider a dictionary of Initials — departments, agencies and other sections of government so often referred to by initials — listed by initials, alphabetically?

Thanks
