Dear Ladies and Gentlemen,

I have been extremely frustrated by the liberal, left wing, media support of the gays in this country. C-Span is one of the few places I can turn for solid, unbiased coverage of such a subject. The fact that President Clinton is now publicly stating his intention to sign an executive order to lift the ban on gays in the military is indeed another example of the slipping moral character of our society. It will weaken our military by subjecting those serving, or planning to serve, with the unnecessary burden of a controversial decision which they do not support. An acceptance of the gay lifestyle as a "normal alternative lifestyle" will send a message to our children and to the world that America no longer embraces the moral standards which we have tried to pass on to people everywhere. America will have instead turned her back on the God that has kept her all these years. She will have lost her way.

By reporting the news in an unbiased manner C-Span helps stem the tide of liberalism, especially on issues involving the advancement of the gay agenda which, from what I can tell, has one goal. That goal being to establish minority status for a group of men and women who have made a "lifestyle" choice. When this happens I believe it will open the door to all sorts of groups stepping up and demanding similar "special" rights.

I would encourage you to continue to provide the other side of the issue and give those who have come out against this action of the President a chance to present their views on this subject. My hope is that many will unite in guiding this country back to the moral center by publicly opposing this gay agenda whenever they are confronted by it.

Sincerely,

[REDACTED]
