

O.B.K.

Dear Brian,

I have heard of your Book Notes program. What a fantastic offering.

I finally got to watch it with A-Scott Borg. I'd just finished Lindbergh and was much affected by C.L. A remarkable, purposeful man. Despite his gaps, I felt an affectionate awe for him. Scott's enthusiasm and sensitivity to his subject was delightful.

I write w. some constructive criticism.
I found your abrupt delivery of questions distracting. I go back to the serial Bob Cromie style of interview. And the illogical way you jump around with your questions! It was annoying, but I felt irked when Scott, about to speak more about Anne M. Lindbergh's thoughts on the kidnapping, ^{was} jerked away by another question. He

The new Library of Virginia in its new location at 800 East Broad Street in historic downtown Richmond. The six-story building houses some of the most unique and historically valuable collections in America.

never got back to it. That could have been very poignant. I don't expect this to make a difference except for me!

re ventilation

Thanks.

