

Practice Random Kindness and Senseless Acts of Beauty

It's an underground slogan that's spreading across the nation. A woman in a red Honda on a crisp winter day in San Francisco, Christmas presents piled in the back, drives up to the Bay Bridge tollbooth. "I'm paying for myself and for the six cars behind me," she says with a smile, handing over seven commuter tickets.

Dear Brian,
The New Yorker, Mrch 14, 1994:

" Brian Lamb of C*SPAN:
wonk as star"

By now you have read the essay, I am sure. I enjoyed it and agree with much about your program.

I am a C-Span Junkie and get most my information from you. It helps a lot to see our legislators in action, often non-action.

Tonight I watched the Oxford Style Debate on Health Reform.
What an education for our legislators as well as the viewers!
I do hope , some real debating will result eventually in Washington.

The English student explained the two important rules:

1. answer the questions, and don't change the subject,
2. never call your adversary a liar, even if he is one.

What is the possibility that C-Span could use radio?

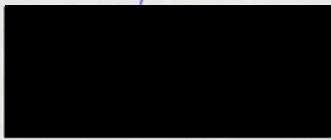

Why is the Senate Chamber almost always empty, when a Senator gives a speech?

Is an 800 number a possibility?

Your Schoolbus is a great idea, and I do hope you continue on a permanent basis. What a great education for our lucky students who have the chance to be involved in your project!

I'll be watching you on C-SPAN 1,2,3,4?

Sincerely,

p.s. I am happy, you decided "to do news longer and longer".

I am very disgusted with soundbites and commercial interruptions,

P.S. was is the definition of work?

Can't find it in my dictionaries!!

P.S. Like Booknotes and get much stimulation from reading the books discussed -
