Dear Mr. Lamb

I want to congratulate you for your handling of political controversy. For an admitted Republican you do the best to occupy a neutral position of any Television personality.

Nearly all reporters, commentators and their brethren reveal their political identity during the course of their broadcasts.

My youngest son 38 thinks Tom Brokaw, Peter Jennings and Dan Rather are liberal apologists for Bill Clinton whereas I have always thought they show right wing bias.

I especially enjoyed the callers analysis of the political scene.

Re the Newt Gingrich broadcast-discussion by Tavis Smiley and Phillip Terzian

"If a democrat stumble he should be locked up.

If a republican stumbles he should be picked up."

Tell the plump gal with the large eyes who took calls-ins during the presidential election that its damned simple to know where she stands.

Get Bill Bennett Haley Barbour and Mario Cuomo on the same broadcast and let people know in advance that you are featuring them. You'll get a huge audience.

or Hillary Clinton and Elizabeth, butter won't melt in my mouth, Dole to discuss: who is the outstanding president 1900 to 1992.

or

Haley Barbour and James Carville to discuss Jim Wright and Newt Gingrich, speakers should not write books

or

Al Gore and Dale Quayle to discuss Franklin Roosevelt and Dwight Eisenhower, presidents of Our Age.

Anyway keep up the good work and hire assistants who are well lettered in open mindedness. Republicans, masterminds of organizing call ins, were acknowledged on your shows by a wide margin. By accident or design
Sincerely
