

Dear Brian Lamb;

13 DECEMBER 2008

I'm sorry, I can't let this rest. Your Booknotes replacement, Q & A, has been a disaster, even if it gets you better Nielsen numbers. When you put on senseless twits like Laura Ingraham, it's worse. I'll go backward & spotlight that idiot Brent Bozell. He took on CBS's former producer, Mary Mapes, with her book, Truth & Duty? Bozell really bulldogged her, barely gave Mapes a chance to breathe. That's what you should've done with Ingraham, all her lies & cheats, her insults to my Maya Angelou. You didn't defend her, she must not mean a thing to you. Here, on AfterWords, where we must now go for Booknotes (because you've abandoned us!) Bozell crapped all over Mapes. You couldn't chase after Ingraham? Then, there was Joseph diGenova, another priceless idiot, he hounded Haynes Johnson on his Joe McCarthy examination, The Age of Anxiety. Johnson could barely take a breath & diGenova was all over him. Yet, you were merely a pussycat, a tabby cat with Ingraham. I hope you're not too proud of this sappy, silly hour. She got away with it all. Yes, I know why the caged bird sings, Mr. Lamb. Do you? Does Ingraham? All good wishes.

AS BURR

[REDACTED]
Mt. Vernon, IL 62864

Brian Lamb
C-Span
400 North Capitol St. NW Suite 650
Washington D.C. 20001

