Letter to the Editor

The Spokesman Review

Please print my letter. Thank you.

The Spokesman Review 12-30-93 printed an article about Cliff Jackson, an Arkansas lawyer and his letter for forgiveness to the President. I saw the man at an earlier political republican doing, and he was pure hatefulness. He did not become humble (as one asking for forgiveness should), he was just using a different way to spill venom. He closes his letter: "your friend." Well, as they say, with friends like that you don't need enemies.

At the Presidential Debates there was only one man who was articulate, knowledgeable and gentlemanly, that was Bill Clinton. The others frequently lost composure and even got insulting.

We are very lucky to have the President and First Lady tirelessly trying to change the way we were sinking deeper and deeper to the bottom. Republican opposition is working hard to suddenly get winning ideas. Where were they the last 12 years?

I came from the Old Country 46 years ago, where General Eisenhower openly, with everyone's knowledge, had an affair with his English chauffeur. This embarrassed the army and lost the respect of the civilians. All the while his wife and family knew about it. Why are generals privileged people?

We also should ask the media to inform us of the outcome of the Neil Bush - SLA Court decision, which was put on the back burner during the Presidential elections. As long as the White-water investment is in the public interest - republicans think - the SLA-Busch deal certainly is.

Mr Lamb, you have the most ladylike and gentlemanly "crea" on your ESPN program. I am not fond of programs where everybody yells at the same time. I am afraid ESPN is going to lose me, with some of the radio talk shows. More distinction is advised there. —
I tried, but never got on your call in program.
Happy New Year
