C-SPAN's broad range of public affairs programming is frequently recognized by the nation's newspapers. The press has called C-SPAN "One of the greatest inventions since - let's see: sliced bread or the Model T" and "One of America's least known natural resources."

Some comment that "Congress is a smash hit on C-SPAN - from Podunk to Pascagoula," or "It's becoming a national phenomenon." Others say, "Pizazz is uncalled for on network of ideas," and it has been called "Gripping viewing - as addictive as a soap opera and far more illuminating."

It also has been said that "There is no more intriguing glimpse of government in action - magnificent education for the American people," and finally, "If there is a thinking person's TV network, C-SPAN is it!"
