Gentlemen:

In watching your coverage of the Christian Coalition, I could not help but notice in your blurb across the bottom of the screen that last night you were printing that "they say" they have a membership of 300,000. This morning I notice you have changed the number to 1.7 million. What happened?

Did they really gain that many members over night? Or if the 300,000 number were erroneous, did you acknowledge your error? If you did, I missed it.
