Dear Mr. Lamb,

I hope that today is the last day of the crucifixion of a Democrat Candidate on C-Span. The Republicans have had it so good the last 12 years, that as Mr. Bush is quoted as saying, "We will win by any means available." I didn't hear him say that, and if he didn't, it fits. Look at the last presidential contest: First, they ran the leading candidate off with a sex scandal--and he admitted it, so it could not have been his integrity. That brought up another credible Democrat candidate, and they ran him out by lies of the Boston Harbor and the Willie Horton story.

If another credible candidate emerges, for in spite of the fact that most of the people whom I have talked with say that politics have fallen to a new low, because if you can find a woman who will cry "fowl" for money she will admit to anything and destroy any man, and they would vote for Gov. Clinton, for he has managed to stay in office for 16 years. Why the scandal now? Sort of points to the administration now? They have learned to have it both ways.

You might have noticed how quickly the woman accusing the Kennedy-Smith victim recovered from her "beautiful" act behind a shield with her tears and only answers that "Boo hoo, he raped me." When she got notoriety and especially money.

I am a woman, have been for 84 years and will be 'til I die. I used to be on the side of the women, but this recent crew aren't mostly worth being called women. I don't know a name to call them. I have more than a speaking acquaintance with psychology and counseling, though I can't give you schools and titles. It was through separate courses and counseling experience. It appears to me now, that (1) women have a lot of enmity against men in general, who have held them "hostage" for so long and want to get even and the money and the popularity, if the man is well known, adds to the sweetness of the revenge. (2) When one (man or woman) pushes another down, one feels elevated, and there are a lot of people both men and women who need to feel some elevation these days.

I am aware of persons all over this city who are suffering from stress, that is tearing them apart at the seams. Some are helping aging parents, other family members without work. (The psychiatrists must be making off like angels, with their ability to give people a sense of balance and medicines to allow them to function.)

If one of the stressed out ones lost a very unsteady job, it would affect not only themselves, but two or three other families.

George Bush has lowered taxes to the point that a CD that I have, and is all I have except Social Security, has fallen in the last year from $750 a quarter to my last check received the first of this month of $410. for a quarter, That is a very great loss to me. I am depending on my children for health insurance. I am driving a nine year old car. I use a 15 year old TV and I have no VCR. I pay extra car insurance for those folks who drive without insurance, I pay tax on everything I use or buy; I pay extra interest on my credit card, used for emergencies, so those who can't or won't pay, will have those like me to keep the banks solvent. I don't have income of even half enough to be eligible to make a tax return. I plan not to vote in this next election after 61 years of a record hard to beat. It is all so crooked that our voting is just a form. The moneyed group have it all sewn up, and the money and plan to win by scandal before we go to the polls.

Very truly,
