

Dear C-Span — a copy of this letter sent to Bill Nichols USA Today we have reached a fine state of affairs when the Presidents must play patty cakes with the Press, in order to get good marks or bad marks reported about them. It is small wonder we are facing so many serious problems.

Had the Press used a fraction of the scrutiny in the past, we see now, President Clinton would not be facing the enormous economic mess, even of more importance, neither would this Country.

Where in the devil and Tom Walker were these watch dogs in the light years the debt doubled, tripled, went up four times what it was? Where was the focus then, like was put on Clinton's haircut?

The Press has been behaving like a pack of out of control juveniles since President Nixon was toppled. They need a trip to the reform school to straighten them up.

They cannot fool all the people all the time. They are not fooling most of the people now.
