This morning's show on the bipartisan commission re entitlement reform is one of the worst you have ever presented. The first guest didn't know anything, & the second was obviously a lobbyist for the high-end-of-the-scale recipient: means testing for millionaires?? No way!

And while I'm at it, do you promise your guests prior to the show that they aren't compelled to answer your viewers' questions? When a caller asks one question & the guests answer ~~the~~ with something unrelated, why can't you repeat the question & ask for an answer ??? I'd rather have one pertinent question truly discussed than to have your guests dance all around 10 questions from 10 different callers.
