

For the umpteenth time. (And now, I'll keep record):

Sunday night, after Hughes:

"Rage for Fame: the assent of Clare Boothe Luce"

0-312

Perhaps I should be happy you got Clare
Boothe right. (I've seen them misspelled.)

But "assent" has a meaning of agreement + concurrence, with a yielding. She surely assented to much, but surely assent is how the word was spelled, though I could be surprised. Why can't you at least copy words + get spelling right? Why is grammar bad?

What do students learn now??

Worcester MA 01602

C-SPAN
400 North Capitol St NW
Suite 650
Washington DC 20001

