Mr. Brian Lamb

Chairman

C-SPAN

400 N. Capitol Bldg., NW, Suite 650

Washington, D.C. 20001

Dear Mr. Lamb:

Once again, let me congratulate you on C-SPAN. It is, by far, the most useful programming on television.

I've been out of work since January 28th of this year. Although I spend quite a bit of my time on job search activities, I wouldn't miss C-SPAN's journalist round table discussion. C-SPAN preserves my sanity by providing some intelligent programming during the daytime hours. On second thought, perhaps it's the only intelligent programming!

You and your staff do a tremendous job. Your coverage is, by far, the most objective I've ever seen. I've become a C-SPAN junkie, and that, I believe, is nothing to apologize for.

Having previously worked as a corporate communications manager, I can appreciate the logistics of your task. To do what you do with the limited staff and budget you've been given is a monumental charge. Your team meets that challenge every day.

Keep up the great work, Brian. Hats off to you and all the folks who make C-SPAN happen!

Sincerely,
