I feel I must protest the program on The American Spectator.

I have heard some negative comments on your Mon morning call in show from unhappy viewers. I was planning to write you about it in the future but since hearing these comments from viewers I want to express my dismay at the insulting remarks about the president and the administration. Every one has a right to their opinion but this dialogue was uncalled for. These people over estimate their importance and under estimate the general public. Instead of selling their "wonderful" magazine I for one will never buy it and upon hearing that program I am sure many others will not. Please exclude them in the future.

Once again I will say that I wish you would not broadcast the "special orders" in the House of Rep. They speak for hours - costing $6000 per hr (as I have read). I am not sure about the cost but it must be substantial. The speech are nothing more than political and with the election year coming up it amounts to campaigning on free time for them and expense to the people who might be listening.

I have expressed this opinion to you before and I realize your station has no choice but to air the time. You must agree it is abused by some who make remarks about their opposition party that would cause a libel suit if said without the immunity given them by rules. Rep Robert Dornan does not speak the truth in his speeches and most of them are downright slander.

I heard the Republicans reserve time for special orders every day until Dec 31. After this request was made the Democrats hurried to do the same. This will undoubtedly prolong the hours until midnight or after as it was last year with the Republican tirade until 2 A.M.

I know you cant control Congress but a lot of people are unhappy about it.
