Comments from Aaron Price Fellows regarding their visit to C-Span.

"The men who spoke were very dedicated to their jobs, but they also had interesting stories to tell. I especially enjoyed Bill Press and Brian Lamb, if I may say so, relics of an every changing town, two men whose anecdotes weren't only entertaining but enlightening."

"I learned at C-Span that they don't care about ratings like other media centers, their only goal is to give information to the public about its government and issues it is handling today. I also learned that it is a non-profit organization and it only receives 5 cents from every household in America."

"The speakers from C-Span were very entertaining and everything they said was worth hearing."

"Brian Lamb was very funny but at the same time he was honest and very straight forward."

"C-Span was a great opportunity. I learned how C-Span is a much different institution that all those other stations like Fox and CNN and MSNBS and CNBC. Their mission is also different and they have a specified field as to what they cover."

"I loved him! I thought he was really interesting & personable which made me want to keep listening."

"In the beginning I was really nervous since I thought that the guest speaker would be serious and strict but Brian Lamb was actually friendly and humorous. I like how he was really open about his experience in the journalism and political field."

"Absolutely hilarious! I thought Brian Lamb, Press and Scully were very informative and amusing. Cool comrades!!!"

"They were all crackups and also really intelligent. Their anecdotes made an event that I honestly thought would be really boring, fun and interesting."
