Gentlemen:

O.W.) I am appalled at your interview this A.M. with Mr. Charles Peters of The Washington Monthly. If I am not mistaken you identified Mr. Peters as heading up the Democratic Party during the campaign of John F. Kennedy in West Virginia. If that is the case it seems to me that he was at the side of his candidate when Pop-po Kennedy sent dollars to W. Virginia to buy the primary for J. F. K. This was explained in Theodore White's, The Making of a President. This being the case it does seem a bit hypocritical for Mr. Peters to question Mr. Kenneth Starr's integrity or to imply that there was truly a "right-wing conspiracy." What we had on display in today's Washington Journal was the Clinton philosophy: "what I did yesterday is not important, let us move on."

I think your format should be returned to what it was a year or so back with two sides of each issue represented each morning. (over)

With that format more information would be presented, and less propaganda. Your guests would be properly questioned.
Thank you
