Dear Mrs. Clinton:

The most expense that we have incurred in health care has been at the corner PHARMACY.

To get a lower price (not a reasonable price) you must compare prices and let them know that you are comparing. For example, Rite Aid has three (3) prices: the unsuspecting customer price; the knowledgeable shopper and the "I can beat that price" price. I've enclosed a copy for an example. (see attached)

A widow comes in and helps with my 95 year old mother. On her $700.00 a month income, she spends $200.00 on medicine. Rite-Aid charged her $70.00 more than Wal-Mart later priced to her. Wal-Mart gave her a written note stating the price. She took it to Rite-Aid and they refunded the $70.00. They had the "brass" to tell her not to worry, that they would put it in the computer so she would always get that price. What about the unsuspecting client?

Sincerely,

enclosure
