Dear Sirs,

I am really enjoying these programs proving that I am not the only one in America, critical of you, and your "competition's", one sided, belated performances in supporting/reporting the past activities of Democrats, especially the Presidents, and the general low-life tactics you use on others, especially conservatives. I am really amused that you think these damage repair programs you have been running are going to change anyone's mind, about you or the sleazy tactics and double standards you use when conducting business, when in reality, these shows are themselves a perfect example of the very actions you are trying to excuse.

I use the term belated in describing your actions, because I recognize the fact that you had most of this Whitewater data at least a full year preceding the Presidential election, but since your stated goal was to dispose of "BUSH" with whatever means necessary, you very conveniently let that problem of ethics die, the problem is, we the great unwashed of the American people kept it alive, until you were finally forced into your damage control programs, admitting your own coverups. So after giving them 2 years to cover their tracks, you have decided to attempt to return to the trusted graces of the people and finally report the "true" story, "boy am I impressed". The real funny part is, instead of facing everyone and answering the hard questions, the accused are using your "little woman" defense, with Hillery, and the "I didn't know anything about it" defense with the President, the latter at least is believable. If it's any consolation I do believe they have had time, and possess the talent to hide, destroy, and change any data necessary to fully exonerate themselves, especially with the help of the Democratic Party, and the co-operation of C-Span.

To make another point about my dissatisfaction with C-Span and your competition/cronies, I point to Nancy Carageen and your treatment of her, as more evidence that you are nothing more than a bunch of unprincipled jerks and jerketts. This woman, by any reasonable standard is a pure victim of two groups. First, someone from the camp of Tonya Harding had her viciously attacked with the express intent of damaging her enough to prevent her from performing, at peak capacity, in the Olympics. This was intended to insure that Tonya be the top American skater. No matter the overall placement, as the top American, endorsements would definitely follow, and the mega bucks would follow. You jerks, and jerketts, decided to follow your usual pattern and defended the criminals, the camp of Harding, became the poor oppressed guiltless victims of society, who could do no wrong, while making the true victim, Nancy, out to be a major conspirator in the whole shady affair. Nancy was guilty of nothing more than being a world class skater, bothering no one, chasing her own rainbow, with dedication and hard work. Then she had a total scum bag attack her to break a leg, the landing leg specifically, for the noble purpose of putting her out of competition, and you haven't given her a moments peace since.

I was at first bothered by the fact she left for Florida before the closing ceremonies of the Olympics, but she had the perfect excuse, you. As I said, there is no reason for you and your accomplices to treat her as you did. A time that should have been her happiest to date, was first tainted by an outlaw bunch of slugs, then you unprincipled slug slime came along to do all you could to wreck her life as much as possible. If there is any justice in the world, many heads will roll before this is over.

Sincerely,

ps:

I just heard, your little angle is pleading guilty to obstructing a criminal investigation, aren't you proud of your part?
