Dear Mr. Lamb,

I love C-SPAN and of all C-SPAN I most love Book Notes. If you have had Robert Parry, author of Fooling America, William Morrow & Co., 1992, on and I missed it, I will kill myself. What I mean is, I highly recommend this book, subtitled "How Washington Insiders Twist the Truth and Manufacture the Conventional Wisdom". He tells some meaty little stories about Newsweek and its chummy relations with the folks that it reports on. I believe this book is in keeping with some of the continuing themes of C-SPAN and since I notice from the book jacket, Mr. Parry lives in Arlington, Virginia, I sure he could scoot right on over. If this is a bad idea, please consider Mr. Parry for your call-in show when you need a gentleman of the left and I'm sure you do.

Keep up the good work, you guys are great. Have you thought about a FAX line for people to send in their questions on the call-in shows. This would be great for those who have actual questions and not so great for those who like to give little speeches.

Yours truly,
