

March 1st, 1993,
[REDACTED]

Whitney, N.J.
08759

Dear Mr. Lamb,

I am an avid C-span fan, and think it is more courageous in discussions of the issues of the day than most of television including P. B. S. I particularly enjoy your Book notes on Sunday evenings, but do have of it one criticism. For the many hours of it that I enjoyed I can recall none that ever tackled a book on a Religious Subject.

Now you receive many deserved kudos for being fair, but here you seem to be neither fair nor even aware of the relevancy of Religion to American policy. The reason for excluding Religion from book notes certainly cannot be justified by the old canon that "Religion is a privacy." If it were it would like to see some of the "penumbers & emanations" we find it in the Constitution.

By excluding Religion from Book Notes you are limiting your library & ignoring a gold mine of wisdom. There are a myriad of authors out there, e.g. Wm. F. Buckley - Russell Kirk. Ray can be Tasty, but some of us would like something to ruminate on. God Bless you,
[REDACTED]

Mr. Brian Lamb,
% C Span,
400 Capital Street N.W.,
Washington, D.C.

20001

Suite 650

[REDACTED]
Whiting, NJ 08759

08759

1955