Dear Mr. Lamb:

Of the 39 members of C-Span's Board of Directors, which I found on page ix of your 1993 U.S. Congress Handbook, I conclude from the given names that only three are women. Am I correct in guessing that the other 36 are white males?

I have more than an idle curiosity about how right (or wrong) I am. I value C-Span as a very important source of information. It becomes suspect, to me at least, if it is controlled by the same dreary controllers that have run things, and badly I think, for most of our history.

Sincerely,

002594 MAY 1993
