Dear Mr. Lamb:

I have been meaning for some time to write in praise of your programs, especially Book Notes. Naturally, the spur to action was what I consider a slip from the heights.

Feeding Frenzy was a disappointment, in that you spent nearly nearly the whole hour focused on Chuck Robb's misdeeds. I thought the title meant that one report can lead many reporters to pounce on a story and blow it out of proportion. Neither you nor the author developed that point. One of you should have kept matters on track.

The point of inadequate reporting of Robb's drug tolerance was well taken, as was the NBC preference for the sexy revelations. But where was the feeding frenzy?

Every other program of yours I have seen left me impressed with the quality of your questions. Even more impressive is that your guest gets nearly all the time. Too many interviewers go on the attack, as if to show that they are the real celebrities.

Thanks for leading me to many interesting books.
