

[REDACTED]
Fairfax Ca
December 4, 1996

Brian Lamb
C - Spain

Dear Mr. Lamb - this is a repeat of my several letters to you over the years expressing appreciation for your work. I especially enjoy the book reviews - the my all time favorite was your biographical interview of Ross Perot after his speech at the Press Club that catapulted him to wide attention. You really just sat and listened after encouraging him to tell the story of his life. There were two segments. (I would love to own them but have never been able to discover how to get them) I think Ross Perot is one of the great men of our time and will "go down" in history for what he has tried to do to save our country. To me, he is a folk hero Texas strong and all. Our country is so lucky to have him.

O-BK

Your interview with Mr. Gorbachev was so revealing. Every thing about him spoke so loudly - a feeling of failure. Almost as the you were speaking to Napoleon on St. Helena!
To me it was tragic that one who had risen so high wielded such power, freed his nation, really should live his life out 'feeling' such a failure. It came across so clearly in your interview.

I was fascinated by the Irishman's revelation of Thomas Jefferson, too!
I did not notice any 'news' items about it in the P.C. press! The liberals are having a struggle with our early heroes - and their need to reject racism politically today!

There weren't any mentions in the establishment press about Judge Bork's book, either! I was so glad to hear him say he was glad he missed the appointment, because I thought his treatment in the hearings and in the press was despicable. I felt we needed quality on our Court.
He is not "smooth" like a politician.
Please continue your good work.

Ed. D.
Colum, Univ.

P.S. I'm 87 years old - native Californian, retired school psychologist.