Dear Mr. Lamb:

Just a short note to let you know that my husband, Harry, and I think your operation is wonderful.

We moved out here from New York City (where we did not have cable because we felt it unnecessary) about five years ago. Since one must have cable in this part of the world to watch just about anything other than sit-coms, we decided to do without for a while. We finally re-entered the 20th century last November and, lo and behold, discovered C-Span. And we, too, have become addicts.

You are doing a tremendous public service. We have always been public-spirited and fairly active politically on a local basis, but felt that the federal government was somewhat remote. Now we feel that we are really able to participate in what is going on, form reasonable opinions based on your coverage and personal interviews rather than filtered through editorial and Op-Ed pages, and express our now informed opinions to the powers that be.

Our only complaint - we can never get through by telephone. Your lines are always busy. But that just proves our point - that you are doing a great job.

Thanks.

Sincerely,
[REDACTED]
