DEAR BRYAN LAMB,

C-Span did itself

unusually proud, when on Saturday they presented most/all of the New Republic.Com activities. It was both a high relief contrast to the regular/replays of Marxist, Presidentially appointed nonprofits that operate at taxpayer liability to divide and conquer, as with the race group and the census mavens that were to insure statistical instead of Constitutional enumeration of the population.

Jules Witcover this morning seems to me rather a better journalist that we need more of instead of the flimsy regulars. USA Today has some of the poorest you've entertained since I've been listening.

We need a new Hayakawa to explain and underscore the differences between public and private, instead of "blurring" them as intent and purpose impose in nonprofit/tax exempts, for example.

It is constantly instructive to me that local newspapers refuse and/or fail to publish NEWS exterior to lowest common denominator or worst aspects of locale.

Hobbs has actually had good local candidates running in this election. State of New Mexico is so full of intractable corruption that it is about impossible to deal. One element of this is 5,000+/- nonprofits that "fund" much activity; to the best of my knowledge these apparats all advocate and/or use tax funds they derive directly and/or indirectly. It's a straight crock. Competition is denied whole, talk to the contrary notwithstanding. Maurice McDonald, Libertarian candidate for Commissioner of Public Lands is an important first. But the voting populace either doesn't know what that is or couldn't care less...just keep the money coming in! If Dianna J. Duran is elected Secretary of state, she will work diligently to eradicate the corruption and fraud with motor-voter registration. She has told me she will pursue ballot access as well...but she hadn't a clue when I asked her what she would do in that office to eliminate current barriers.
