Dear Sirs -

Last night I was watching CSPAN2.

I was frustrated in that when an individual was identified at the lower left bottom of the screen by name and, below, party and state, I could not read the party on my TV screen.

I didn't switch to CSPAN to see if the same problem exists there, but I have often watched CSPAN in the past and not had a problem, so I suspect the problem is only with CSPAN2 (which I have not often watched before.)

Anyway - I request or suggest that you change the format of the line with party and state to give the state first and then the party. That way, even if a character or two at the start of the line is chopped off, a watcher can still most likely figure out what the state is, and will definitely be able to tell the party.

If you need to call me for any clarification of the above, my day time phone number is
