I was listening to your call in show yesterday afternoon. I believe your guests were from Washington Post and Wall Street Journal. A lady called in about the Clinton administration in its first 3 weeks in office paying double pay to White House employees and giving retroactive pay raises. Your response was "Do you have any idea what that was about?" One reporter said he did - you immediately went on to something else.

This was reported on CNN one time when GAO just discovered it. According to CNN

"Dell Tee" Myers apologized - said it was wrong, etc.

Never was this mentioned on NBC, CBS or ABC news or again on C.N.N. I doubt AP picked it up - it was not in the Lubbock or San Antonio papers.

Do you wonder that public confidence is at such a low ebb over fairness of the media? It makes the public nervous to think the media cover up what does harm to their particular political leanings.

Had you really never heard this story?? If not - why not? Why not let the reporter who had answer the callers question?

Sincerely,
