I watch C Span because whether the Legislature is on the screen or an interview and call in program is in progress, the information discussed is of interest to us all, or should be. The English language is spoken properly, those taking part are polite to each other, both sides of issues are covered well, and those behind the scenes setting up the programs seem to have done their homework well. It teaches all who listen and watch that the major issues of the day are complex ones and that we should spend a relative amount of time giving credit to and trusting in those elected and appointed officials who are trying to do a good job. It can be a learning experience for adults as well as children.
