Brian LAMB, CHAIRMAN
CSPAN Network
Washington DC.

Dear Mr Lamb,

For the last few years, my husband and I have been great fans of CSPAN especially you, Brian Lamb, for whom we have high respect. We think you have put on programs of great quality, always impartial, respectful of others and of good intellectual exercise. The subjects are always very interesting and challenging... until this past week. What happened to your sense of discernment? We cannot understand why you would suddenly give so much attention to the previous sex life of our President!

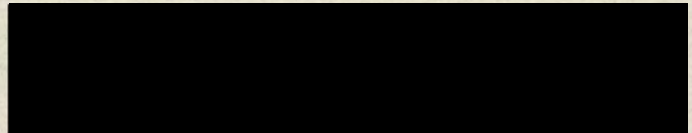

Only people who read scandal sheets will thrive in it. Let the news report it briefly, without judgement - if they can! It does not make any logical sense to see a station like yours spend two hours and much more, interviewing an obscure magazine reporter who wrote a "piece" based on unproven allegations of two troopers, and thereby giving this fellow tremendous visibility!

In any case I am not interested in learning how the governor of Arkansas has spent his private life. People voted for him because of his program, not his sex life. I am much more interested in his political and economic accomplishments. Let the dirty job be done by those who like to swim in mud. Let them stew in it. They do not deserve five minutes of your time, nor mine.

We feel let down. Please lets keep the programing on a high and meaningful level.

Very Sincerely

& Merry Christmas
