Brian Lamb!

I firmly believe that morality and integrity should be a prerequisite for the man and woman that occupy the White House. I personally believe that those qualities are not present in the two occupants at this time.

I understand that, according to the media, President Clinton was involved in demonstrating against this country during the Vietnam War and that he also organized demonstrations.

Now, according to Webster's dictionary, this is tantamount to treason. Webster's definition of treason is violation of allegiance owed to one's sovereign or state; betrayal of one's country.

If this is true, then according to Webster's, he is also guilty of sedition. That is defined as stirring up of discontent, resistance, or rebellion against the government in power.

The Constitution of the United States (Article III, Section 3) declares "Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort."

From everything I hear and see on T.V., it is my feeling that this man should be impeached!

I am very curious as to why almost everyone that President Clinton has appointed to positions in the White House is either ultra liberal, lesbian or homosexual and he seems to have a lot of friends that have questionable ethics.

Is he one of them? And which one? Or all of the above?

It sounds like this man hates the Military and I question how he feels about God and Country!

I would appreciate your guests comments on these questions.

Why hasn't the media taken this information and investigated it further? It was on T.V. that I heard of his escapades overseas; demonstrating in a foreign country against his own country.

I personally feel that Clinton's demonstrating against his country in the time of war is far more heinous than Watergate ever was. And especially for a man that sits in the Oval Office. It turns my stomach every time I see that man in any clothing that even resembles a part of a service man's uniform.

Sincerely,
