Dear Mr Lamb,

I was surprised, appalled and offended that CSPAN would devote any time to the tabloid journalism filth expressed by Mr Brock of the American Spectator in connection with allegations of sexual indiscretions by then Governor Clinton. And the interview was given extensive coverage by CSPAN during the day and evening. Personal and private sexual behavior by anyone should not be covered by responsible media and only when there is concrete proof that sexual behavior has resulted in the abuse of a public office.

My strong objection to the interview is shared by many of the people with whom I associate. A few of them have said that the time given to the American Spectator, the Heritage Foundation, Washington Times and other conservative spokespeople and organizations is uneven and reflects your and CSPAN's political philosophy and resentment of Bill Clinton. I don't share that opinion.

CSPAN doesn't need to compete for "customers" through the use of sensationalism used by the print media. CSPAN must conduct its operation at the highest level of integrity in order to retain the credibility and respect that it earned, and deserves.

I wish you continued success and a wonderful new year.

Sincerely yours,
