TO-MICHELLE ARMSTRONG
VIEWER INFORMATION COORDINATOR

I almost watch CNN every night and I find that this program CROSSFIRE IS A VERY GOOD PROGRAM. I am wondering why John Sununun has replaced the lady that was on before him. Can it be that CNN is hacking president Bush for re-election.

I think that it is very wrong for him to make remarks that benefits president Bush in anyway. When he does this, this is giving president free air time that the other candidates don't receive. His job is to ask questions not to campaign for the president.

I don't think that the show host commutator should interject their own personal points of views into their program. On crossfire it is their job to get a debate going between the two or more guests that they have on the program. And I certainly don't think that any TV station should back any candidate. And this to me is just what CNN is doing when they have John Sununun on Crossfire.

I take notice that almost every TV reporter will interject their own personal points of views when they are reporting the news. This is all right when they are guess on another show but not on their own show.

The news media does have a lot to do with the way that people think. People are sway by what they hear. The reporters should report the news as it happens but that is all they should do. Let the people make up their own minds about it.

And I still can't understand why you don't have ordinary people on C-Span. Why not get the views of the ordinary of these people about different issues that effect all people. I think the views of ordinary people would help the government officalals to decide what they can best do to help the people. Don't just get business people, get people who work for some else to make a living.

There is an issue that has been brought up before but it doesn't get any straight answer. And that is the State of Israel. There are never any question brought up why Israel think that they have a right to this land. Sure we all know what is said in the Bible. This book called the Bible is which has lead other people to believe that this land belong to them. The Bible has two themes in it. One is about a people who write about their selves and the other is about a man call Jesus Christ.

This land was never given to them by God nor anyone else and they are not God's chosen people nor are they a special people. These are all myths created by their leaders down through the centuries.

And there are no Jewish people just as there are no Germans nor french or Americans. Just like people are put into different races. And there is but one race of people and that is the human race. So there are just people, God didn't create a Jew or a German, he just create people. If we are to believe in the Bible, then you have to believe that God crated one man and one women. It is the Bible that has made other people to believe that these people are a special of God and that God gave then that land. And most christen people believe this because of what is written in the Bible. There are another group of people who now have come forward and claim their selves as special people. And they are known as the Jehovah Witness.

And none of these questions have ever been ask. SO we really don't get to the truth. The Bible only deals with a small portion of the world and that is the middle east. And according to the Bible GOD scatter people all over the surface of the world. But then God is suppose to have flooded the world and wipe out all things except Nora and his family and the animals that they took with them. But then there is no record of where the ark was when the flood was over and the water went down. So there is recorded of where these people started over. So the Bible is very vague when it comes to dealing with all aspect of the world. This is why I would like to see more debate on why these people think the way they do. Thanks for letting me sound off.

Sincerely
