

Respected Sir,

O-C/Lew

I am so upset with all the things going on about the president. I think the president is the least thing which happened for America. It is really ridiculous to see the hypocrisy going on especially the Republicans and the Christian leaders who say they have never sinned. I think President's apology was genuine and it's sad to see such heartless and inhuman people. I have been in America for 1 1/2 yrs. I came to this country from India because I thought this is an open minded society. We in India would not put our political leader (Prime Minister) in this situation. All the people who are pointing fingers don't know that three of the fingers are pointing back at them. He is a human being not god who cannot make mistakes. I know he represents the people.

but he has done many good things for American people you can tell because the economy is good. I think Stas is a pervert and he is manipulating the American people. He has a grudge against the president that he wants the president to be humiliated in every way or other. Maybe someone must have given him money in conspiring against the president. Probably some one must investigate him as to what he did with forty million dollars of the American people where is watergate filegate and other investigation did he just use 40 million dollars just to investigate the sex life of Clinton.
I think this is a big circle of conspiracy against the president because he passed some bills which would have hurt some big businesses.
(~~Let's~~) Let's move on and let him do his good work (President). Anonymous.
