

BIOGRAPHY OF BETH GLATT

Washington, D.C. -- Ms. Beth Glatt is the Manager of C-SPAN Audio Networks, which she created in 1989 to supplement the public affairs programming provided by C-SPAN and C-SPAN 2.

Ms. Glatt's responsibilities include developing, designing, and programming the audio services. C-SPAN Audio 1 delivers a composite of international news programs along with historical specials produced from archival audio tapes. C-SPAN Audio 2 airs the BBC World Service 24 hours a day. The audio networks are now available in 4.2 million households in the United States through 63 cable system affiliates.

In addition, Ms. Glatt is the Executive Producer of C-SPAN's Weekly Radio Journal. The hour-long program summarizes the events shown on the C-SPAN cable television networks and airs on more than 40 U.S. radio stations.

A native of New York, before joining the Cable Satellite Public Affairs Network, Ms. Glatt held positions as a news reporter, writer, anchor, and public affairs director for radio and TV stations in Washington, D.C. and Maryland. She is a graduate of Montgomery College and currently resides in Virginia.

BIOGRAPHY OF BETH GLATT

Washington, D.C. -- Ms. Beth Glatt is the Manager of C-SPAN Audio Networks, which she created in 1989 to supplement the public affairs programming provided by C-SPAN and C-SPAN 2.

Ms. Glatt's responsibilities include developing, designing, and programming the audio services. C-SPAN Audio 1 delivers a composite of international news programs along with historical specials produced from archival audio tapes. C-SPAN Audio 2 airs the BBC World Service 24 hours a day. The audio networks are now available in 4.2 million households in the United States through 63 cable system affiliates.

In addition, Ms. Glatt is the Executive Producer of C-SPAN's Weekly Radio Journal. The hour-long program summarizes the events shown on the C-SPAN cable television networks and airs on more than 40 U.S. radio stations.

A native of New York, before joining the Cable Satellite Public Affairs Network, Ms. Glatt held positions as a news reporter, writer, anchor, and public affairs director for radio and TV stations in Washington, D.C. and Maryland. She is a graduate of Montgomery College and currently resides in Virginia.