5,85 Mr. Brian Lamb C-span Annapolis, Ind. 21401 august 9, 1995 plear tur. Lamb, with VI Day couning up and knowing how you are a book lover I am having the publisher of my book it has one of the best eye accounts of the his Kouc day of the signing of the surrender of Japan are He V.S.S. luss'auri. I have long been an admirer Dyours and believe C- Space to be the swigle reason for the politeal revolution we are reining today. I wrote to President Bush shortly before he went out of Muce and asked hun to give you the highest avilenie award for your great servere to our country. Topt and on the hussourie at Sort of full circle for our family as my husband last his leg at Pearl Harbor and my father was at the surrender, I thuk my book is quite inversaig besides Le course it is full of the problems we face Koday. Thengo haven't changed that seench. I am enclosing a flier that gives you an edea d) what the book is about, Tank you again for your remarkable dervice to our country. Jui cerely

September 2nd, VJ-Day will be the 50th Anniversary of Victory in the Pacific. There will be big celebrations in both Hawaii and at Bremerton, Washington on the U.S.S. Missouri where the signing of the surrender of Japan took place 50 years ago.

was Chief of Staff to Admiral Halsey and was present that historic day on the Missouri. At the time, he wrote a minute by minute account of the day--General MacArthur's arrival, the expressions of the Japanese emissaries, the breathtaking fly over at the ceremony. His account was published in the Naval Institute "Proceedings" in 1985, and is reprinted with the book of his story.

He designed and administered the entering of Japan and in his oral history describes the incredible experiences of the occupation—the freeing of the abused and tortured prisoners, the demeanor of the Japanese people.

Admiral did a 900 page oral history for Columbia University of his life and his naval career. It goes from World War I when he was the gunnery officer of the U.S.S. Fanning that sank the German U Boat, the U 58, taking prisoners, through World War II when he was skipper of the U.S.S. Denver that sank two Japanese destroyers. After which he became Chief of Staff to Admiral for the duration of the war.

After the war in his oral history he describes setting up NATO in the Mediterranean under General Eisenhower with six countries under his command.

The success of Southern NATO caused Congressman Mendel Rivers to write to his friend Gordon Gray, "I used to be skeptical of NATO but I think it has real possibilities. Assisting Ridgway and Gruenther are Lauris Norstad of NATO Air Forces and Admiral who heads everything in Southern Europe. is the most brilliant naval officer of his generation."

Because of the success of Southern NATO, President Eisenhower tapped Admiral to be Chief of Naval Operations.

The book, by his daughter, is based on her father's oral history. It can be purchased from the Sunflower University Press, KS 66502-4228, or by ordering at S27.95 with a $2.50 mailing charge.