Dear Brian Lamb,
You are my choice for the brightest spot in TV's vast wasteland. Booknotes is my favorite program (along with Peter Jennings' evening news, and Washington Week).
Last night's theme made me marvel again that we can put satellites in the heavens, send men to the moon, but ~~still~~ attempt to solve national disputes by planned mass killing, i.e. war. I had not thought of Vietnam for a long time until the Washington Post urged going as a tourist, citing the friendliness of the people & superb service in the hotels.

O.B.K.

The 'review' of the war left me feeling so angry that we ever got into it -

Again, thank you for Lookwater

Sincerely,
