Again, as usual, the same old (excuse) story for having right wingers to dominate your shows. You can believe that you do it purport to try to balance your coverage.

C-Span is leaning toward the same rut that other news media has become comfortable with.

Today - Brian Lamb offered the "reason why there are few or any representatives of the "left" on the program, is that they can hardly be found. (Then why would the label still exist?) It sounds like the same reasoning that employers have for not having minority representatives - "We can't find no one has to make the argument - just watch

C-Span and Cable - you would believe the following folks are major
