

[REDACTED]
Richmond, Va., 23228
[REDACTED]

C-Span
Suite 155
400 N. Capitol Street NW
Washington, D C 20001

I watch C-Span because I have always been interested in politics and government. C-Span provides me with a front-row seat at history in-the-making. Seeing our congressmen in action has given me, in most cases, a new respect for their ability, diligence and knowledge, and, in a few instances, has made obvious their inadequacy. It is a broadening and satisfying experience to meet congressmen and women from many parts of our nation, and to glory in our diversity as well as in our common purpose. C-Span gives me this opportunity every day.

I also enjoy your coverage of Press Club luncheons, other meetings and discussion groups as well as the special hearings, and I particularly like the attitude of C-Span reporters, who remain courteous and impartial and give all views a chance to be heard - you are developing some of tomorrow's bright stars in TV journalism.

I have been, in recent years, so disenchanted with network coverage of the Presidential Conventions that I was doubly pleased to hear that C-Span would cover them this year and no doubt return to the days when we saw and heard what was happening without too-frequent interruptions for dubious "scoops" from the floor. If your convention coverage even approaches the job you did in Iowa and New Hampshire (I loved that store) or the "Day in the life of..." series, I shall be more than satisfied.

[REDACTED]

Richmond, Va., 23228

C-Span
Suite 155
400 N. Capitol Street NW
Washington, D C 20001

