I watch C-SPAN because the original and varied 24-hour programming is informative and educational. It expands my horizons without creating bias by providing unedited coverage of national events.

The showing of complete Congressional hearings gives me a better understanding of current political issues and the workings of the Federal Government.

The in-depth primary election coverage (without editorial comment) has provided the means to evaluate the candidates.

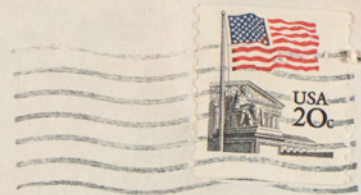

The viewer call-in shows exposes a wide variety of viewpoints on important issues while the public policy conferences give a basis for formulating my own opinions.
