Dear Ms Dorsey:

The Democrats and Liberals really found a good friend in C-Span. For some time you had nothing but Democrats and Liberals on; the same thing, the same groups, over and over again. "The Road to the White House" is overdone and boring to the point of nausea. When will Buchanan be on, or is he a non-person?

C-Span prides itself on being fair, but the three networks are more fair. They are aware that they have to account to the public, but C-Span is "King of the Hill". Republicans and Conservatives should have equal time.

If a guest trashes the President, a representative, or a Conservative, Brian and Susan give them all the time they want, and they ask questions that will encourage them to continue. But, if someone says something that is unfavorable about a Democrat or a Liberal, they are cut off immediately. Is this fair? Brian says, "Oops! I didn't mean to cut him/her off!" But your favorite people never get an "Oops!"

When the Vicepresident spoke at the Bar Association, the network praised him for how well he held his own. When C-Span finally had him on, that part was cut off. That happens often with the Republicans, the Heritage Foundation, or any conservative groups who seldom get air space.

It was announced that Newt Gingrich would be on. I made a note of the date and the time, but he was replaced by the Rainbow Collision which was on Saturday and Sunday. That's fair? Is Newt a non-person? Your Call-In Program is the same, with Democrats, and occasionally, Republicans. That's fair? Do you need permission from the Democrats to put on a Republican?

When I first listened to C-Span, I watched the facial expressions and the body language of the hosts, and tried to figure out where they were coming from. It's easy to see now where they're coming from, or where they're going. C-Span is losing its reputation, and some people are dropping cable because of this. Who is your program director? Check with him, and you will find that I am right. Is Brian in charge, or is someone above him? If so, I would appreciate his name and address.

The airways belong to everybody, Republicans, Conservatives, Democrats, and Liberals, but the Democrats and Liberals are trying to turn us into a third world country.

Thank you for reading this letter. I am looking forward to true fairness.

Yours truly,
