

1/7/99
C-Span - I was especially enthralled by the Senate lectures aired by your station.
The talks of Senator Mansfield Baker and Byrd were fascinating from a historical aspect and the sense of commitment each Senator conveyed to the importance and traditions of the Senate as not only a governing body, but an institution that embodies the social values and mores of the nation.
However, great the Senate is perceived, for me, can it resolve the nation's underlying divisions.
