Dear Mr. Lamb,

I thank you, my son thanked you and I'm sure my five Confederate great aunts, with whatever approbation is allowed them in their "altered state", thank you for the utter kindness you extended their progeny the afternoon of our visit to C-Span last month. You cannot know what a delight for me it is to have met Lea Ann, Susan, Lou/Lew, and you and to have the enriching perspective of being able to "place" each of you as I watch C-Span's programming—especially book-notes. The time at C-Span was the piece de resistance of my sojourn in the environs of Washington!

This week of the Fourth that we spent with the School Bus has been quite superb. Each day has added immeasurably . To my appreciation of the overwhelming idea that our nation is and with so many others I shall be forever in your debt. It seems to me that every citizen with access to the C. Spans should feel compelled to set aside some time every day for the challenges offered us just for the taking.

My copy of Bill Harris' Washington, D.C. has new and enriched significance as I continue to enjoy this thoughtful gift.

Ever gratefully,
