Dear Mr. Holman

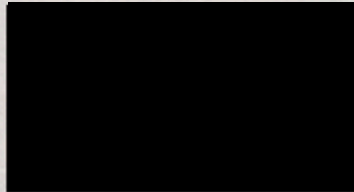

I just heard you say on C-Span that the mainstream press misses a lot of non-mainstream material, which comment brought to mind the following quote from David Halberstam's THE POWERS THAT BE: "...the real power of journalism was the power to define, the power to cover or not to cover."

Having been horrified by the Frontline program this week, which showed the injustices in the North Carolina day care abuse case, I would expect that the mainstream press would focus on an episode in which Constitutional guarantees of liberty are so blatantly disregarded.

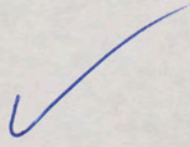

If the "powers that be" do not pay more attention, there will be no protection for them, either, as the tide of anger and repression rises.

I encourage you to continue your good work.

Sincerely
