

Dear Sirs

I keep on hearing the people from South America being referred to as Latins. I would like to clarify this. The people from Spain & Portugal who colonized South America could be referred to as Latins. But the majority of the people are not from Spain or Portugal but they are Indians. Who have been there since day one & these are the people who are being referred to as Latins. They are as much Latin as the man on the moon. These people will not admit that they are Indians from the Incas Aztecs etc. but they are.

Latin was the language of the Romans & I feel it should remain just that & not be used to refer to Indians from South America.

Yours truly

cc: Barkley Kern

[REDACTED]

SCOTRUN, PA.
18355

C-SPAN
SUITE #650
400 NORTH CAPITOL ST.
WASHINGTON D.C.