FEDERAL JUDGE SPEAKS OUT ON CAMERAS IN THE COURTROOM
ON C-SPAN'S "AMERICA AND THE COURTS"

- Senior Judge on 9th Circuit Court of Appeals Featured This Week -

Washington, D. C., January 29, 1992 -- Judge Alfred Goodwin, Senior Judge on the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals will be the featured guest this week on C-SPAN's America and the Courts, C-SPAN'S weekly look at the American judicial system. The program is second in a two part series focusing on the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, one of two federal courts participating in a three year experiment permitting the use of cameras in the courtroom.

Judge Goodwin says he approves of the cameras; "the more light you let into the swamp, the better." The federal judge also discusses the increasing burden criminal cases and Congressional sentencing mandates have had on the courts, and comments on the relationship between the press and the legal profession.

The hour-long "America and the Courts" airs Saturday, February 1, at 7:00 PM (ET)/ 4:00 PM (PT). Also included in this week's program is a tour of the Federal Courthouse in Pasadena, California, a building that once was a luxury hotel. There will also be oral arguments in a civil rights case between the City of San Francisco and city firemen.

C-SPAN is currently available in 55 million households nationwide and around the world via satellite. C-SPAN is privately funded to serve the public by America's cable television companies.
